Tuesday at the Breed theatre in "Suda," a United Artists' photoplay of an entirely different nature to anything in which she she has heretofore appeared.

The theme of "Suda" is based or Maude Adams' famous play. "Op o' Me Thumb," which she presented for a long time at the Empire theatre in New York as well as on her triumphal tours of America. It is from the dual pen of Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce, two brilliant young English authors.

Miss Pickford in "Suda" is an entirely new Mary Pickford. The play is screamingly funny throughout excepting for a bit of pathos which is introduced in her hopeless love affair which is really only in the flights of her very vivid imagination. This production will show off the dramatic and artistic ability of the little star to an advantage never before seen.

Pearl White will also be seen in the fourth chapter of "The Black Secret," which is titled "Below the Water Line" and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and "Topics of the Day."

What Makes Sorn Pop? A grain of "popcorn" is filled with tightly-packed starch grains. The in-side of the grain is divided into a large number of cells, each of which may be likened to a tiny box, the walls of which are sufficiently strong to withstand considerable pressure from with in. Upon the application of heat the moisture present in each little box it converted into steam that finally escapes by explosion. The grain of corn then literally turns inside out and it transformed into a large mass of snow white starch.

Pretty Idea of Chinese. Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men. their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.
